Contributing Factors

Research has identified a common set of factors that leads children to positive outcomes in the face of significant adversity. These factors include:

Being in nurturing, supportive adult-child relationships (i.e. parents/caregivers).

Building a sense of self-control.

Providing opportunities for social and emotional development.

Participating in faith, hope, and cultural traditions.

Why It Matters

It is important to develop and implement programs and policies that support PCEs to make life better for everyone and promote long-term health and well-being.

The more positive experiences, the stronger a child's resilience muscle becomes. Positive experiences can offset adverse childhood experiences.
